History of world Braille Day

- The term "Braille" was dubbed after its creator. Louis Braille was a frenchman who lost his eyesight as a child when he accidentally stabbed himself in the eye with his father's awl.
- Braille's gift to the world has brightened the lives of millions of people around the world who are blind or visually impaired, and they benefit from his work every day.
- Braille completed his work, developing a code based on cells with six dots, making it possible for a fingertip to feel the entire cell unit with one touch and moving quickly from one cell to the next.

Sarojini Naidu's 143rd Birth Anniversary

- She was born in Hyderabad in 1879 in Begali Brahmin family.
- Her birth Anniversary is also celebrated as National Women's Day in India.
- Her father Aghorenath Chatterjee served as principal of the Nizam's College in Hyderabad.
- Her work as a poet earned her the sobriquet "the Nightingale of India" or "Bharat Kokila" by Mahatma Gandhi because of color, imagery and lyrical quality of her poetry.

"We want deeper sincerity
