Dear Dr. Janki Rani,

This letter is with reference to the Gender and Human Rights Course that we had decided to commence in your college in the month of November 2007 for a period of one month. We have been in touch with Ms Ambika for the same, since September 2007.

This has reference to our discussions with Ms Ambika, on the possibility of organizing a one month course on Gender and Human Rights in Government College for Women, Begumpet.

We have prepared a draft outline of the course but would like the outline to be finalised after discussion between your teachers and the Asmita team. In order to facilitate the discussion, we would like to invite you to depute concerned teachers to our office to look at our material and discuss the framework of the course with our team.

We are keen that we strengthen the institutional linkage through mutual visits and discussions at both sites. Please do confirm the date and names of persons by phone. We work Monday to Saturday, 10 am to 5.30 pm.

Thanking you,

Yours Sincerely,

Dear Madam,

Asmita is a resource centre for women, working on various issues to eliminate discrimination against women. One of our primary focuses is providing education and awareness to college students through several mediums. In September we conducted a session on gender discrimination in your college. Many of your students have participated in our other programmes as well. Mumtaz Begum and Hafeeza Begum, students of Government Degree College for Women, Begumpet won the first prize and second prize respectively in the Intercollegiate Essay Writing Competition on Human Rights on 10 December 2007. The feedback we received was quite positive and we are interested in collaborating with your institution again.

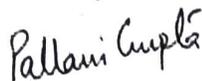

Along with offering a variety of programmes and exhibitions, we are pleased to announce our new Gender and Human Rights course, which is aimed at creating awareness among students on social and legal issues. The course is for a period of thirty days, after which a certificate of participation will be awarded to the students. The awareness and certificate gained from this course will be useful for career advancement. This course is designed to sharpen understanding of women's issues, create social awareness and empower students, as well building student capacity and self confidence.

The certificate will be on behalf of Asmita Resource Centre for Women, in collaboration with your college. We expect that this course will enable the students be aware and empowered citizens, who will work for values of justice and equality.

The course methodology will be participatory and inclusive. We will provide written material addressing various women and gender issues for all participants. We hope that you will be interested in having this course take place in your institution.

As suggested by you, we are ready to undertake an MOU with your institution. This would entail three programmes every month and also the gender and human rights course for your college students.

Sincerely,

Pallavi Gupta

Dear Madam,

Asmita is a resource centre for women, working on various issues to eliminate discrimination against women. Educating young women for rights is a significant part of our work. We have conducted workshops and training sessions in various colleges and institutions, like the following:

1. Sexual Harassment complaints and procedures at St. Ann's college, Medhipatnam, Hyderabad on 10th December 2004
2. Sexual Harassment at the workplace, at Hyderabad Central University on 28th February 2005
3. Photo exhibition of Womanscape on 28th November at RBVRR women's college, Hyderabad.
4. Legal perspectives on Early Marriage at St. Ann's college on 8th November 2005
5. Dowry and Class distinction at St Francis College, Begumpet on 17th January 2007.

In the colleges there are many young girls on the threshold of adulthood, who may face various forms of violence. Our effort through the sessions, in the colleges, is to strengthen their understanding of rights and discrimination so that they are better able to deal with their lives.

We would like to focus on issues relating to gender, legislation against child marriages, eve teasing of young girls, sexual harassment, violence against women and various legislations concerning women's rights.

We request you to kindly grant us permission for the workshop in your college. We are also available to design extra curricular activities like debates, exhibitions and movie screenings. We have also enclosed a copy of Asmita's brochure for your perusal. For further questions and queries please feel free to contact us at the above mentioned address.

Thanking You,

Yours Sincerely,
