Engaging Audience
Engage Your Audience
Consider this scenario:
"First slide, please." The hall lights dimmed, the audience hushed, and the speaker launched into his paper — the culmination of 15 years of painstaking research. Flitting from point to point, he realized that he was running out of time and read the paper even faster. He didn't have much time to dwell on his complicated slides. By the end of the talk he was going so fast that there wasn't time to reverse the seven slides that were projected backwards. Finally, the speaker closed the talk. The lights came on. Two thirds of the audience had let under the cover of darkness; the other third was asleep.
Let's answer few questions...
