Nainpaka Temple:

Nainpaka village is very famous for Babasa

Temple! It built roughly 400-500 years ago.

Nainpaka temple. The temple that is believed to have built in the 15th or 16th century on a pink stone rock around 25km to Jayashambhar Bhupalpally, unique in style and to be as the one and only in south

-en India is in a state of shambles.

This lesser-known rock cut temple, a prototype of saivatobhadra architecture, which has ten deities carved out on a protruded boulder.

Inside the sanctum of yoga Narasimha swamy, sei Rama and Balasima. One on each side of east, south, north and west respectively, on a boulder that is a part of the pink stone bedrock on which temple is located, is visual. fiesta.

The shrine, which has four functional entrances on cardinal directions could be accessed from all sides, is a masterpiece of sarvatobhadra architecture. The vimana (upper part) of the ornately sculpted 50-foot gopuram (tower) was made of baiks while the Adhikstana (base) was constructed with the pink stones sliced from the bedrock.

Local lore

Local lore has it that once upon a time Babarusa ruled the land.

He protected his subjects but killed those outside his kingdom. While he came to be known as a demon, his subjects considered him their god and as a tribute, this temple was built. The structure reflects excellent sculpture. The whole of sanctorum sanctorum was carved out of single huge boulders.

The 'Sikhara' was built with bricks.
