In case of second and final year students, they are categorised based on their performance in their previous semester examinations. Every department maintains the marks register with marks scored by each student in all the six semesters.

2. Activities undertaken for slow learners:

Each department conducts remedial classes before the examinations were announced by the university, the slow learners and failed students are identified and registered for the remedial coaching. The important content is revised and previous question papers are practiced by the students. The students are trained in the examination point of view to score good marks in the university examinations.

- Special classes are conducted for slow learners for paying individual attention
- A separate schedule of time table is followed for remedial teaching
- Solving previous year's annual and supplementary examination question papers of the university in the class room itself
- Performance of the students is assessed by conducting tests frequently and the same is intimated to the parents
- Parents are asked to meet the subject teacher in which the student fails to show any improvement
- Such students are motivated to improve their knowledge of the subject further
- Organizing group discussion, mock programmes, quiz etc for them
