II. A BRIEF REPORT

An Awareness Program on Green Consumerism in Degree Colleges of Devarakonda was conducted by the Department of Commerce in association with Consumer Club of the college on 20 December 2021. The resource person, Ms. S. Sarada Devi, Assistant Professor of Commerce, along with the students of the commerce department participated in the event.

The resource person educated the audience about the protection of nature as it is extremely significant keeping in mind the tremendous effects it has on our health. She said that nature thwarts the outbreak and proliferation of many diseases. Environmental protection helps conserve the varied ecosystems around us and indeed saves the whole of humanity. Therefore, we have to give utmost importance to the conservation of nature. In our country, various factors such as industrialization, population explosion, poverty and rapid depletion of forest cover are mainly responsible for the elevated pollution levels as well as the degradation of our environment.

In the current circumstances, Ms. S. Sarada Devi added, 'Green Consumerism' is an extremely important concept that helps in protecting our 'Bhoodevi' (Mother Earth). Consumers have recognized the bad consequences of consumerism and the harmful impact that their actions have on the environment, and are moving towards 'green buying' although it entails paying more money for purchasing green products.

The resource person explained in detail the meaning of the term, 'Green Consumerism', which refers to the process of consumption, being fully aware of the environmental consequences. Green consumerism motivates people to protect the environment by keeping away from those goods and services which harm the environment. Keeping the present scenario in view, it is important that we comprehend the idea of 'green products' and create awareness in the public and motivate them to purchase green products and thus contribute to environmental protection, thereby helping our next generations.

Ms. S. Sarada Devi ended the event with a call to join the movement called 'green living' which motivates people to adopt an environmentally friendly way of living.

The Q & A event was dominated by questions from the students about the practicality of adopting 'green consumerism' and 'green living' for which the resource person gave suitable replies. The principal, staff and students participated in the event, making it a memorable one.

Students from BCOM visited various colleges in Devarakonda and created awareness about Green Products.

II. A BRIEF REPORT

The National Consumer Day event was conducted by the department of commerce on 21/12/2021. The resource persons were Mr. N. Bala, Assistant Professor of Commerce and Mr. B. Suresh Kumar, Guest Faculty in Computer Science.

N.Bala, Assistant Professor of Commerce, began the event by giving a welcome speech. He explained briefly about the importance of the National Consumer Day. The resource persons then elaborated on the topic by giving the audience an extensive overview of the rights of the consumers.

National Consumer Day is celebrated on 24th of December, the day has been presented to make people aware about the rights of consumers. Government has fixed prices and rates for almost every good and every service but most of the sellers play their tricky part and quote prices other than government prices which leads to threat of Consumer rights.

The day is celebrated on 24th December every year, the formation of this day was held in 1986 under Consumer Protection Act. This day was made to protect consumer's rights and to make people aware about it. This step is one of those steps which the government took to control the market exploitations.

It's not easy to keep the consumers' rights protected as every day there is a new scam and new technique to exploit it but people must be aware about it which makes the significance of this day very important.

The Principal, Dr. Ch. RamaRaju, also spoke on the occasion explaining the need for the consumers to be alert about the prices of the products they purchase. The students participated in the Q & A session by asking lively questions. The event ended with the vote of thanks proposed by B.Suresh Kumar, Lecturer in Computer Sciences. II. A BRIEF REPORT

An extension lecture was organized by the department of Commerce for B. Com. II year students. The resource person was Mr. M. Satyanarayana, Lecturer in Commerce, Kranthi Degree College, Konda Mallepally. The topic was probability.

Mr.N.Bala, Assistant professor of Commerce gave a speech introducing the guest and welcoming everybody. He then handed over the proceedings to Mr. M. Satyanarayana.

The guest speaker gave an elaborate lecture on the topic. He said that probability is the branch of mathematics/statistics concerning numerical descriptions of how likely an event is to occur, or how likely it is that a proposition is true. The probability of an event is a number between 0 and 1, where, roughly speaking, 0 indicates impossibility of the event and 1 indicates certainty. The higher the probability of an event, the more likely it is that the event will occur. A simple example is the tossing of a fair (unbiased) coin. Since the coin is fair, the two outcomes ("heads" and "tails") are both equally probable; the probability of "heads" equals the probability of "tails"; and since no other outcomes are possible, the probability of either "heads" or "tails" is $1/2$ (which could also be written as 0.5 or 50%).

He spoke about the importance of probability topic to Commerce students. He solved many problems from the textbook. In the Q & A session, the resource person answered all the queries posed by the students. The event concluded with the felicitation of the guest and a vote of thanks proposed by N. Bala, Assistant professor of Commerce.
