Keep abreast of digital technology, teachers told

STATE BUREAU

Warangal Rural

Collegiate Education and Technical Education Commissioner Navin Mittal said that the need of the hour was for every teacher to update and keep themselves abreast of the latest skills of digital technology for online education.

Addressing the participants at the valedictory session of a one-week national online faculty development programme (FDP) in “Sustainability of Institutions of Higher Learning in the context of Covid-19: Challenges and Perspectives” organised by Government Degree College (GDC), Narsampet, in the district on Saturday, Mittal acknowledged the significance of Online Degrees, and propagated implementation of the blended or hybrid model of teaching and learning through online platform.

He also suggested that the whole semester system should be continuous per se, and added that he is hopeful that the future is more dynamic. Mittal also urged the faculty members not to restrict themselves with FDPs but to think and go beyond. He, however, congratulated and appreciated the principal, GDC, Narsampet, and his team for organising the FDP which is useful to the faculty across the country.

Prof K Purushotham

Kakatiya University Registrar and professor of English K Purushotham, who was the special guest, delivered a session on the topic “Issues and opportunities of Covid-19 in Higher Education”. He said that the majority of the undergraduate students were lacking the employability skills and the dropouts were mostly girl students belonging to Dalits, Adivasis, OBC and other marginalised sections of the society.

He recommended the adaptability of digital pedagogy through blended learning. He predicted that by 2040 jobs in some fields would be taken up by Artificial Intelligence (AI). He also predicted the possibility of the introduction of robots into teaching.

Academic Guidance Officer of CCE, Dr P Bala Bhaskar stressed the need of online teaching through various tools and asked the faculty to learn the skills of how to use various online tools and platforms.

Principal, GDC, Narsampet, principal of GDC, Parkal, FDP Co-convenors, Organising Committee In-charge and other members of the faculty participated in the programme along with 750 participants from different States of the country.
