NDLI: Why, What, Who and How?

Five Laws of Library Science

1. Books are for use.
2. Books are for all, or, Every reader his book.
3. Every book its reader.
4. Save the time of the reader.
5. A library is a growing organism.

- S.R. Ranganathan

- WHY NDLI?
- HOW DOES NDLI WORK?
- WHAT KIND OF CONTENT?
- WHO IS THIS FOR?
- HOW TO ACCESS NDLI?
- WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN GOOGLE AND NDLI?

Why NDLI?

- Anytime and anywhere access
- Single ubiquitous platform for providing equitable access to knowledge resources
- Accessing same resources by multiple persons at the same time
- Missing/ hidden/ damaged resources
- Democratize Education
- Lockdown due to COVID-19

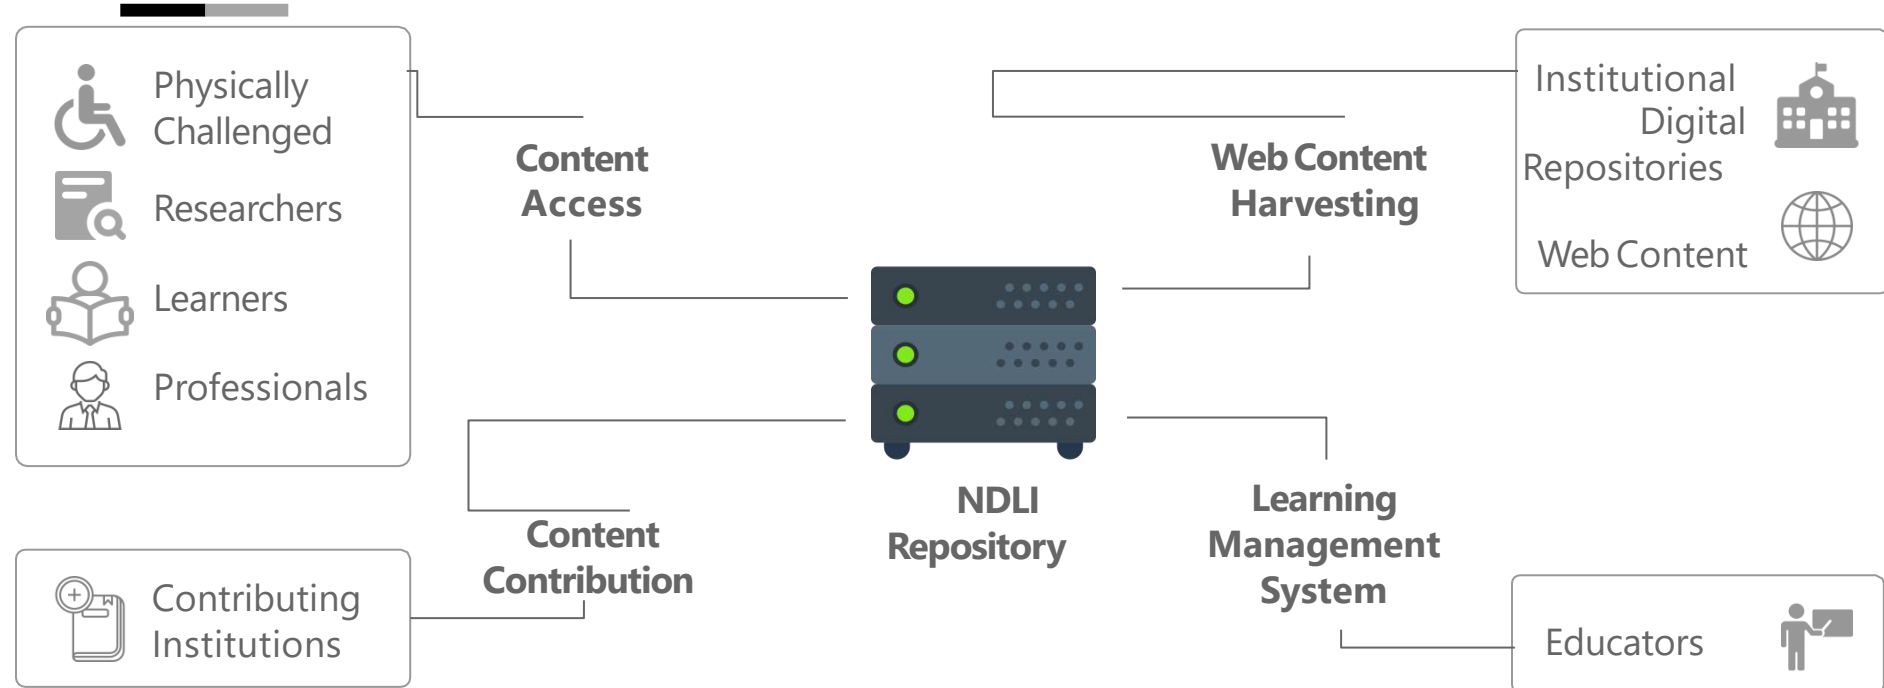

HOW DOES NDLI WORK? METADATA

- Metadata is primarily textual information relating to content
- It includes information that enables users to identify, discover, search, browse, interpret, or manage content
- Includes hyperlinks that direct users to content to the source
- May include an expressive description of the content

NOTE: NDLI does not store contents, it only ingests metadata for Search & Browse. The content (Full-text) is delivered from Source.

Abstract	This literature review paper discusses the proper use of qualitative research methodology to discuss several aspects of the research for the improvement of the skill of the readers. During the last few decades, the use of qualitative research has been increased in many institutions. It can be used to explore several areas of human behavior for the development of organizations. The purpose of this study is to provide inspirations to the new researchers for the development of their qualitative articles. The paper analyzes the design of qualitative research giving some methodological suggestions to make it explicable to the reader. In this paper an attempt has been taken to study the background of the qualitative research methodology in social sciences and some other related subjects, along with the importance, and main features of the study. explored the factors affecting elementary teacher's ability to understand the academic needs of their racially, culturally, and ethnically diverse special education students, and the ways in which their values and beliefs influenced their use of culturally responsive practices in the special education classroom [Jones-Goods & Grant, 2016].

J. A. Hatch identifies five research paradigms: positivist, post-positivist, constructivist, critical/feminist, and poststructuralist; and poses ontological, epistemological, and methodological questions for each [Hatch, 2002]. In a review paper Haradhan Kumar Mohajan has discussed reliability and validity of a good research that increase transparency, and decrease opportunities to insert researcher bias in qualitative research [Mohajan, 2017].

1. Objective of the study

This study analyzes the qualitative research methodology for the new researchers. We have tried to highlight aspects of qualitative research strategy in social sciences and related subjects. This study will bear the following specific objectives:

- To provide a basic understanding of qualitative research.
- To equip with sufficient information to appreciate how qualitative research is undertaken.
- To highlight different types of qualitative research.
- To describe in brief the characteristics, strengths and weaknesses, advantages, and importance of qualitative research.

4. Methodology of the study

Research methodology indicates the logic of development of the process used to generate theory that is procedural framework within which the research is conducted [Biemny et al., 1998]. The methodology of this article is to discuss aspects of qualitative research in social sciences and some related subjects in some details. The data were collected to achieve the result for the purpose and scope of this study. In this study, secondary data are used to enrich the article. For the collection of secondary data, we have used both published and unpublished data sources.

The published data are collected from:

- various publications of foreign governments or of international bodies and their subsidiary organizations,
- various research reports are prepared by research scholars, universities, economists, etc., in different fields,

Magnetism is a class of physical phenomena that are mediated by magnetic fields. Electric currents and the magnetic moments of elementary particles give rise to a magnetic field, which acts on other currents and magnetic moments. Magnetism is one aspect of the combined phenomenon of electromagnetism.
