Details of Student Centric Methods of Teaching

(Experiential Learning/Participative/Problem Solving Methodologies)

Introduction:

Department of English has introduced many innovative and Student Centric Methods of teaching particularly during the period of CORONA ON-LINE classes to reach the students and to motivate them to keep their interest in learning. They are successful and retained the students' interest in learning English.

Departmental Websites:

Majority of the classes are held through online through ZOOM. Whatsapp groups are created to communicate with the students and to share the study material. The department has realised that due to dumping of many posts in whastapp, students are not able to segregate or store and retrieve them when needed. To overcome this issue, the department has identified Google sites to be the best available, reliable solution to share all the required information to the students.

It required lot of home work to do. The material in various formats like PDFs, Videos need to be prepared and then it has to be stored in cloud and links has to be posted in the Google sites systematically and then share the sites with the students.

The department has worked day in and day out to prepare all the relevant material and has started building the google sites.

The department has prepared 4 websites for each semester successfully and made available to the students. These sites are not only used by our college students but also by the students of other colleges. Ex: GDC, Nagarkurnool Principal has shared these sites with his students.
