

A memorandum of understanding (MOU) is a type of agreement between two (or more) parties. It expresses a convergence of will between the parties, indicating an intended common line of action. It is often used either in cases where parties do not imply a legal commitment or in situations where the parties cannot create a legally enforceable agreement. It is a more formal alternative to a gentlemen's agreement.

MOU are usually not legally binding and are less formal documents than a more binding contract. However, they are taken seriously in business transactions. MOU are stronger than a gentlemen's agreement or a handshake. They are often the first steps companies take toward a legal contract.

An MOU should include the following:

- 1) Names and contact information of the parties involved
- 2) Context and purpose or goals of the agreement
- 3) approximate date when the agreement will become effective.
- 4) Signatures of all parties involved.

9 Components of a MOU

- 1) Introduction
- 2) Purpose
- 3) Scope
- 4) participants
- 5) Roles & responsibilities
- 6) other provisions
- 7) Administration
- 8) Terms of review
