Title: "Improving English Communication Techniques Through the mobile app among the students during the covid-19 pandemic times!"

This kind of innovative activity will help the student to improve their oral communication skill in English. Mobile phones have multifunctional capabilities that can be used anytime and anywhere at the convenience of the learners. Therefore, the study aimed to investigate the possibility of using mobile phones as tools to improve the oral interaction skills of the learners.

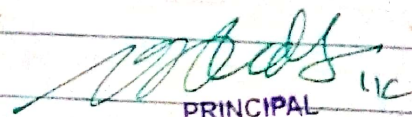

mobile phone is useful tool for English language learning. I would like to discuss this simple and easily available tool can be used by the student for learning and evaluating English.

Despite years of learning the language, the students fail miserably in English communication. The objective of learning English is to make the student use the four skills efficiently in real life situation.

Mobile phone is a common instrument that can be seen in every hand especially in the hands of students. To be frank students have the latest mobile phones. As they are inquisitive in nature, they become experts.

in operating various functions of the mobile. It has been considered as a very useful and convenient tool for learning of English.

As a part of this innovative activity the students are directed to install English newspaper reading app during the Covid-19 pandemic times. The English teacher instructed the students through online mode and listens students reading activity and guide them to find out difficult words, after that they are advised to maintain a notes for recording vocabulary and finally it leads improve their communication skills in the English language.
