Dr.S.NARAYANA SWAMY
ASSISTANT PROFESSOR
MENTOR – MENTEE
REGISTER
2018-2022

Out of the many plans had for the department, the one that topped in list was the establishment of a proper mentor-mentee system.

With the increasing levels of stress that students have begun to experience, it has become necessary to have the presence of a Counseling Cell at the institutional, educational and industrial levels. In regard of this view, the college administration has decided to start Mentor-Mentee System in the College.

The counseling cell in SR& BGNR COVT. ARTS & SCIENCE DEGREE COLLEGE (A) - KHAMMAM especially, the Faculty of Commerce & Business Management, follows a uniform hierarchy to ensure proper functioning of the system. In Mentor-Mentee System, the day to day activities is headed by a faculty-in-charge under whom all the departmental mentors (departmental faculty) work. These Mentors help the students tackle depression, emotional trauma, academic pressure or personal issues.

Role of Mentors:

1. To guide the incoming batch and help familiarise them with the different aspects of a regular day at college. The neophytes need to understand the daily aspects of a student life at the institution. Coming from a place where their needs are fulfilled before demand, the students often find it difficult to adjust themselves to the demanding life. This is not an easy transition and the mentors are expected to play a vital role in ensuring a smooth transition. The Mentor should ensure to the best of his/her ability that his/her mentees are able to adjust comfortably to life.
2. To protect the student against any form of abuse. Although ragging at KGC is not a major problem, isolated incidents cannot be ruled out. In these situations, mentors will be helpful as the mentees will be comfortable in opening up to a familiar face, which provides them with a sense of security. The institute has a strict tolerance against ragging in any form. In any such event, the mentor should bring the matter immediately to the notice of the authorities.
3. The mentors should assist the new students to overcome any problem (both social and academic) in an advisory role and guide them through their first year. However, effort should be made towards guiding the mentee to be self-reliant and independent and spoon-feeding should be completely avoided.
4. In case the mentees face any kind of psychological or emotional problems, the mentors should inform the counsellor or concerned faculty immediately.

Benefits:

1. You will experience a development in your communication skills. The more attention you pay while listening, the more you develop yourself as a communicator. Listening skills develop only with practice and you can learn a lot during your journey as a mentor, ultimately helping you to sharpen your communication skills.

2. Mentoring is a lot about rapport building and ice breaking. Many students would be reticent towards opening up to seniors about any problem they might be facing. People often open up to individuals, whom they can trust to keep a secret, who cares about their welfare and is not likely to use the confided information against them. Thus to be a great mentor and a good human being these are the qualities you will need to inculcate. This is a great life-skill to have and you will find that having good rapport building skills will eventually reap many benefits to you during your career as well.

3. It may seem that as a mentor you are superior to the mentees as you are probably the one who is doing all the giving. However, upon investing some time and interest in your mentees you will discover their strengths and domains where they are more accomplished than you. Getting into the relationship as a mentor, with an open mind would not only be an enriching experience for the mentees but would also help you in learning something from the mentees. Putting your mentee at an equal footing, will give you an opportunity to grow with them in this relationship.

Impact on the Mentees

The freshmen will be the ones benefitting directly by this endeavor. Besides providing support academically, it will also grant them guidance in other fields. From advice in extra-curricular activities, like NSS, NCC, figuring out how to deal with peer pressure, to maintaining a healthy balance between work and leisure- this programme will cater to many other sections that play a vital role in shaping a student's persona over the span of college life. Yet another important factor that it'll provide aid to is breaking the ice between the juniors and their seniors, while curbing ragging and providing a productive manner of interaction.
