ONE DAY WORKSHOP ON BLOOD GROUPING

(05-07-2021)

The department of Zoology in collaboration with Health Club organized a Workshop on Blood Grouping on 05-07-2021. The objective of the workshop is to enable the students to know their blood group, method of grouping, and types of blood groups etc by involving in the workshop. The faculty members used participatory method and encouraged the students to involve in the workshop.

The Principal S. Ganapathi Rao, in charge of the department Dr. A. Sanjeevaiah, faculty members, and students participated in the workshop.

Dr. K. Ganesh Assistant Professor of Zoology testing on Blood grouping at Zoology Lab on 05-07-2021

Students involved in sample collection in the workshop on 05-07-2021

Aims and Objectives of the Seminar

Students are able to

- be to name the two main "naturally occurring" antibodies to red cell antigens.
- be able to know the two antibodies which would be found in individuals of each ABO type
- be able to explain why the ABO system is the most important red cell blood group system for transfusion therapy.

Outcome of the Workshop

The students were able to know the various blood groups; they also know the unique blood groups and the importance of blood donation. The students have decided to donate the blood for the benefit of need persons. They cleared their doubts and misconceptions regarding blood donation.
