2. Vyakaranamlo Paribhashika padaalu (2021-2022)

(Specific Vocabulary in Telugu Grammar)

Summary Report: -

To learn any language having the knowledge of grammar is essential. Telugu language has its own unique grammar. every student learn grammar from the stage of primary education. but we noticed that students are byhearting the principles of grammar and delivering the same in examination instead of owning the principles of grammar and applying in daily life. in this process students are unwillingly uninterestingly byhearting grammar for the sake of examination and to get good marks. Thus they are missing the essence of literature which is very much there to enjoy. teacher can give information only. when the student apply the same into the concern field, then only it becomes knowledge. when a student just by hearts to produce the answer on paper, teaching remains in the stage of information only .To address this issue we started an add on course called Specific vocabulary in Telugu grammar.

According to our syllabus each and every word which is used in principles of Telugu grammar is explained with illustrations and examples for example

1. Akaaramu. means the letter A(అ)

2.Dwithvamu (ద్విత్వము) means a letter with same stressed syllable or double lettered

Eg. Akka (అక్క)

Mogga (మొగ్గ)

3. Karmadarayamu means a word which includes noun and adjective

example: - Blue pen, Telugu language

Here in this compound noun an adjective blue explains the speciality of that noun called pen.

Like this number of specific vocabularies are there in Telugu grammar which are to be explained in detail to the students to enjoy the grammar and not to by heart for the sake of examinations rather to enjoy the essence of literature.

Telugu grammar has Sandhulu, Samasalu, Alankaralu, Chandassu as major categories.

Each and every section has at least 50 specific words

In this course principles of Telugu grammar and specific vocabulary which comes in those principles are taught to the target group

Outcomes: -

1.Students learnt the specific vocabulary of Telugu grammar

2.Students able to understand the principles of Telugu grammar

3.Students enjoying by using the principles of grammar to express their views in Telugu language

4. Eminent Poets in Ancient Telugu Literature (2021-22)

Summary Report: -

Early Telugu literature is predominantly religious in subject matter. Poets and scholars drew most of their material from, and spent most of their time translating epics, such as the Ramayana, the Mahabharata, the Bhagavata and the Purāṇas, all of which are considered to be storehouses of Indian culture.

From the sixteenth century onwards, rarely known episodes from the Purāṇas would form the basis for the tradition of Telugu-language kavya. Literary works are drawn from episodes of the Purāṇas under the name Akhyana or Khanda became popular along with depictions of the fortune of a single hero under the title of Charitra, Vijaya, Vilasa and Abhyudaya. Such titles are examples of what would become the most common subject matter of poetry.

In the eighteenth-century, marriages of heroes under the title Parinaya, Kalyana and Vivāha became popular.

Religious literature consisted of biographies of the founders of religion, their teachings, sāra, as well as commentaries, bhashya.

Nannaya, thikkana, Yerra Praggada, palkurki Somana, Nanne choda, Ashtadaggajalu ets poets works, style is taught to the targeted group

ACADEMIC YEAR 2021-22

ADD-ON COURSE ON LABORATORY SAFETY RULES AND REAGENTS

Summary:

The department of chemistry has conducted add-on course on "LABORATORY SAFETY RULES AND REAGENTS" for Bachelor of Science life & physical sciences of Second year students. This add-on course conducted from 01-09-2021 to 09-10-2021 (course duration 30 days) under the supervision of the following Resource persons.

Resource persons:

- 1) Md.Jaleel ahmed, Assistant professor of chemistry
- 2) Ch.Venkateswarlu, Lecturer in chemistry
- 3) A.Rajani , Lecturer in chemistry
- 4) J.Vikram Kumar, Lecturer in chemistry

Course Objectives:

- The goal of this course is to make students familiar with the safety rules in laboratories.
- To create awareness on hazardous chemicals and poisonous gases.
- To minimize the risk of injury or illness to the students with simple laboratory skills.
- To create knowledge & skills in the laboratory to prevent minor & major accidents.
- To create awareness in handling of dangerous chemicals and reagents.

This is to certify that, the following given students are enrolled in the ADD-ON Course in “Laboratory Safety Rules and Reagents” with the duration of 30 days, which was held from 01.09.2021 to 09.10.2021 for the Academic year 2021-22

ADD-ON COURSE ON WATER ANALYSIS

Summary:

The department of chemistry has conducted add-on course on "WATER ANALYSIS" for Bachelor of Science life & physical sciences of First year students. This add-on course conducted from 25-10-2021 to 01-12-2021 (course duration 30 days) under the supervision of the following Resource persons.

Resource persons:

- 1) Md.Jaleel ahmed, Assistant professor of chemistry
- 2) Ch.Venkateswarlu, Lecturer in chemistry
- 3) A.Rajani , Lecturer in chemistry
- 4) J.Vikram Kumar, Lecturer in chemistry

Course Objectives:

- The goal of this course is to make students familiar to drink safety and healthy water in the rural and urban areas.
- To create awareness on excess fluorides, chlorides, sulphates present in the drinking water.
- To minimize the risk of illness to the students with the help of water analysis.
- To create knowledge & skills how to reduce contaminants in ground water.
- To find out contaminants in drinking water with simple laboratory tests.

This is to certify that, the following given students were enrolled in the ADD-ON Course in "Water Analysis" with the duration of 30 days, which was held from 25.10.2021 to 01.12.2021 for the Academic year 2021-22.

DEPARTMENT OF CHEMISTRY

ADD-ON COURSE ON FOOD ADULTERATION

Summary:

The department of chemistry has conducted add-on course on "FOOD ADULTERATION" for Bachelor of Science life & physical sciences of final year students. This add-on course conducted from 28-03-2022 to 09-05-2022(course duration 30 days) under the supervision of the following Resource persons.

Resource persons:

- 1) N.Saikondalu, Assistant professor of chemistry
- 2) K. Geetha, Assistant professor of chemistry
- 3) Ch.Venkateswarlu, Lecturer in chemistry
- 4) A.Rajani , Lecturer in chemistry
- 5) J.Vikram Kumar, Lecturer in chemistry

Course Objectives:

- The goal of this course is to make students familiar with the contaminations in all food items.
- To create awareness on adulteration in eating oils, honey, cereals & cereals products, sweet items etc.
- To find out contaminations in food items with simple laboratory skills.
- To create knowledge & skills in the identification of Healthy Food items.
- To minimize the illness of the students health.

This is to certify that, the following given students were enrolled in the ADD-ON Course in “Food Adulteration” with the duration of 30 days, which was held from 28.03.2022 to 09.05.2022 for the Academic year 2021-22.

SUMMARY REPORT ON ADVANCED RADIO ACTIVITY

The Department of Physics has organized Add-On course on "Advanced radio activity " to enhance the skills of understanding radio activity contents and concepts more effectively for the academic year 2021-22 for B.sc physical science students. 113 students have enrolled for this course ( List of students enclosed).The course syllabus has been taught in 30 clases of 1 hour duration.

Sri .B.Uday kumar Asst professor of physics and HOD and smt.K.manjula Asst.Professor of physics acted as resource persons for this course.

After the completion of the course ,certificates are issued for succesfully completed students through their assessment.

In this course student can gain the knowledge and understanding the learned content of radioactivity and detectors.The student should made to study principles and effects of ionizing and non-ionizing radiation in human body to explore the effects of radiation in matter and how isotopes are produced. The students also learnt various detectors for detecting the presence of ionizing radiation .

Add-On –Course (2021-2022)

“Personal Hygiene”

Summary Report

An add-on course to enrich the knowledge of students studying Microbiology and to make them environmental conscious, appreciate the nature and understand ornamental fish species, the Department of Microbiology has introduced an add-on course, titled “Fabrication of Fresh Water Aquarium Maintenance”

This course was commenced on 26/10/2021 for the academic year 2021-22 with duration of 30 working days and completed on 09/02/2022. In this course, 71 students were enrolled.

Personal Hygiene at household level in the rural is believed to solve the major health problems. Personal hygiene is keeping our body, our teeth, our hair, our clothes and our genital area clean. It is one of the mechanisms used for breaking disease transmission cycles. It also helps the individual to have a good aesthetic value by the people he/she is living with. Moreover, it is a good figure of better living style.

Disease transmission commonly occurs as a result of unhygienic disposal of human and household waste combined with poor hygienic practices. For disease to occur three conditions must be fulfilled: Source of infection a susceptible host environment

Components of personal hygiene:

- Face hygiene
- Fingernail & Toenail hygiene
- Ear hygiene
- Hair hygiene
- Foot hygiene
- Environmental cleanliness

The mouth is the area of the body most prone to collecting harmful bacteria and generating infections. Our mouth mechanically breaks food into pieces. This process leaves food particles (food debris) that stick to the surface of our gums and teeth. Our mouth cavity is full of bacteria and is a good environment for bacterial growth.

Our face reveals our daily practice of personal hygiene. Face hygiene includes all parts of the face. The most important area to keep clean is the eyes. The eye discharges protective fluids that could dry and accumulate around the eye. They are visible when a person gets up in the morning. The organic substance of the eye discharge can attract flies and this is dangerous because the fly is a carrier (vector) of trachoma and conjunctivitis.

A nail is hard tissue that constantly grows. Long fingernails tend to accumulate or trap dirt on the underside. The dirt could be as a result of defecation or touching infected and contaminated surfaces. Keeping nails trimmed and in good shape weekly is important in maintaining good health. Clip nails short along their shape but do not cut them so close that it damages the skin.

Ear wax accumulates in the ear canal that leads from the outer ear to the ear drum. As the secretion comes out of the ear it collects dust particles from the air. Daily washing with soap and water is enough to keep the outer ear clean. If you feel wax has accumulated and is plugging your ears and interfering with hearing, consult your doctor.

The hair follicles from which the hair grows produce oil from the sebaceous glands that keeps the hair smooth. The scalp (the skin covering the head) also has numerous sweat glands and is a surface for the accumulation of dead skin cells. The oil, sweat and dead cells all add together and can make the hair greasy and look dirty unless you wash it regularly.

Foot hygiene is also important in the treatment of podoconiosis, sometimes known as mossy foot. This disease causes swelling in the feet and lower legs and is common in certain parts of Ethiopia. It is a reaction in the body to very small soil particles that have passed through the skin of the feet. Podoconiosis can easily be prevented by wearing shoes at all times but, if someone is affected, careful washing and drying of the feet is an important part of the treatment.

Environmental health is broader than hygiene and sanitation; it encompasses hygiene, sanitation and many other aspects of the environment that are not included in this Module such as global warming, climate change, radiation, gene technology, flooding and natural disasters. It also involves studying the environmental factors that affect health.

“Importance and Health Benefits of Fermented Food”
Summary Report

Importance and Health Benefits of Fermented Food is an Add-on course to enrich the knowledge of students studying Microbiology and to make them Health conscious, appreciate the health benefits of the Fermented Food.

This course was commenced on 05/02/2021 for the academic year 2021-22 with duration of 30 working days and completed on 10/03/2021. In this course, 70 students were enrolled. They were taught the health benefits of Fermented Food. Different types of fermented food and its advantages to health.

Health aspects of fermented foods

Fermented foods are rich in probiotic bacteria so by consuming fermented food beneficial bacteria, enzymes can be added to intestinal flora, thereby increasing the health of gut micro biome and digestive system and also enhancing the immune system.

- Digestion and absorption: As some of the sugars and starches in food have been broken down through fermentation process, these foods became easier to digest. For example, fermentation breaks down the lactose in milk to simpler sugars-glucose and galactose- that if a person is lactose intolerant, can make use of products such as yogurt and cheese that are potentially easier to digest.
- Synthesis and availability of nutrients: Fermentation can also increase the availability of vitamins and minerals for our bodies to absorb. Additionally, by boosting the beneficial. Bacteria in the gut, the ability to manufacture B and K vitamins can be enhanced.
- Immune functions: A large proportion of the immune system is housed in the gut. By consuming probiotic-rich foods, the mucosa (gut lining) is supported as a natural barrier. making the immune system more robust. A lack of beneficial bacteria allows disease causing microbes to grow causing inflammation in the gut wall.
- Phytic Acid: Some natural compounds that interfere with the absorption of nutrients can be removed by fermentation. Phytic acid, for example, which is found in legumes and seeds, binds minerals such as iron and zinc, reducing their absorption when eaten. However, phytic acid can be broken down during fermentation so the minerals become available.
- Mood and behaviour: Our gut is now known as our second brain due to the size, complexity

Sauerkraut:

Sauerkraut is the fermented product of cabbage. It is literally called as sour cabbage. Earlier cabbage leaves were used to be dressed with sour wine or vinegar. Later the cabbage was broken or cut into pieces, packed into containers, and covered with verjuice (the juice expressed from immature apples or grapes), sour wine, or vinegar, gradually the acid liquids were replaced by salt and a spontaneous fermentation resulted

Originally sauerkraut was made only in the home because it provided a means for utilizing fresh cabbage which otherwise would spoil before it could be used. Now the commercial production of sauerkraut has become an important food industry. Even so, a significant quantity is still produced in the home, particularly in rural and suburban areas where home vegetable gardens still exist.

An add-on course to enrich the knowledge of students studying zoology and to make them environmental conscious, appreciate the nature and understand ornamental fish species, the Department of Zoology has introduced an add-on course, titled "Fabrication of Fresh Water Aquarium Maintenance"

This course was commenced on 01/04/2022 for the academic year 2021-22 with duration of 30 working days and completed on 24/05/2022. In this course, 30 students were enrolled. They were taught to fabricate an aquarium. Different species of fish to be introduced into the aquarium and the maintenance is explained practically.

The course was much fruitful. The students learnt and enjoyed the course. Two examinations were conducted for 25 marks each on 25-04-2022 and 10-05-2022 respectively. The results were announced .the participants passed the exam with good grade. At the end of the course an exit meeting was conducted and the successful candidate were issued certificates. The students expressed their thanks to the College and the faculty for successful conduction of the most useful course.
