PROFILE

Introduction:

Since its inception, there has been a growing demand for training and placement record has also been considerably impressive. Yet, there is so much to be done and so many milestones to be reached. With TSKC Training Centre, the college has started giving training to students in employability skills and global set skills. The various tie- ups made accessible through the CCE are also providing greater opportunities for the learners to reach greater heights.

Jawahar Knowledge Centre (JKC) project was introduced by Collegiate Education with the support of the Government of Andhra Pradesh in 2005-06 to help students learn and practice employability skills and is a dependable solution to the problem of unemployment faced by students studying non-professional courses in Government Degree Colleges.

Before bifurcation of Andhra Pradesh TSKC was called as JKC but after the formation of TELANGANA State JKC (Jawahar Knowledge Centre) is changed to TSKC (Telangana Skills and Knowledge Centre).

Jawahar Knowledge Centre's primary aim is to provide intensive training to students in employable skills and enable students avail themselves of the bright opportunities in the global job market. Remarkably, the centers are best utilized by the poorest of the poor and marginalized sections of the society. Students from rural areas who have no access to advantages experienced by their urban counterparts are provided the latest technologies and opportunities to upgrade their skills and encouraged to compete for better standards of living. The centre received overwhelming response from day one and the encouraging placements add to its strength and objectives.

Objectives:

- Design curriculum integrally related to the needs of the job industry.
- Ensure all students' and stakeholders' needs are understood, focus on problematic areas like "voice based efficiency" and "accent with minimum mother tongue influence" to provide a sustainable solution to the demands of the placement generating companies.
- Generate modules tailored to the learner's level of proficiency, lesson plans and study material by utilizing the expertise of faculty in GDCs who were trained by ELF Master Trainers from the US and Infosys.
- The student on completion of training should comfortably and confidently use employability skills in a variety of social and business situations.
- Improve their learning outcome.
- Expand Training package to include courses that are in demand and promise 100% Placement opportunity like TALLY, MS Excel, Networking, Hardware etc.
- To shape students across the State and make them globally acceptable citizens
- To promote College - Industry relations through training and placements.
- To provide the best of the opportunities to the students who belong to weaker and marginalized sections.

The benefits of TSKC
(TELANGANA SKILLS KNOWLEDGE CENTRE)

- Career Awareness/ Planning Workshops
- Training Practice on employable skills
- Training by Enabled Faculty/ Industry
- Co- curricular activities to enhance Communication and Soft skills
- Campus Placement with Major MNCs

READING SKILLS

INTRODUCTION :

“Reading maketh a full man” Conference a ready man: and writing an exact man...by Francis Bacon

Reading is the basic foundation on which academic skills of individuals are built. As we know the paramount importance of reading, it is given the top priority in education. Many believe that reading is a true measure of a person's success in academics. Most of the subjects taught to us are based on a simple concept – read, understand, analyze, synthesize, and get information.

Reading is the process of decoding written symbols for the purpose of making meaning or getting information. Reading dwells more on our sense of reasoning which enables us to interpret and understand what we have read. Reading is a method of communication that enables a person to turn writing into meaning. It allows the reader to convert a written text as meaningful language with independence, comprehension and fluency, and to interact with the message.

Reading is a complex activity that involves both perception and thought. Reading consists of two related processes: word recognition and comprehension. Word recognition refers to the process of perceiving how written symbols correspond to one's spoken language. Comprehension is the process of making sense of words, sentences and connected text. Readers typically make use of background knowledge, vocabulary, grammatical knowledge, experience with text and other strategies to help them understand written text.

You already use a range of reading styles in everyday situations. The normal reading style that you might use for reading a novel is to read in detail, focusing on every word in sequence from start to finish. If it is a magazine you are reading, you might flick through the pages to see which articles are of interest. When you look in a phone directory for a particular name, you purposefully ignore all other entries and focus your attention on spotting the name you want. These everyday reading skills can be applied to your studies. The reading demands of college study are not easy. Unfortunately, however, it is all too common for students to pay little attention to their own approaches to reading, that is, how they read, and how they can improve the effectiveness and speed of their reading.

Effective reading: general advice:

The following advice may seem obvious, but is important.

- Consider where you read. Always read in a well-lit and quiet place that is free of distractions, and don't get into the habit of reading uni materials in bed! (unless you want to go to sleep).
- Don't vocalise as you read. This will slow you down, it won't help concentration, and it will lead to bad reading approaches.
- Read at times when you can concentrate, and maintain concentration by taking regular short breaks, perhaps every 30 or 45 minutes.
- Set yourself reading tasks (10 pages, 1 chapter, 1 section of a chapter etc).
- Remember that reading often takes longer than you expect and you often need to go beyond set texts. Give yourself enough time!

Reading skill refers to the ability to understand written text. It is advisable to develop this skill at early age of schooling. When students comprehend or understand written text, and combine their understanding with prior knowledge, they are able to perform the following three reading-comprehension skills.

1. Identify simple facts presented in written text (literal comprehension)
2. Make judgments about the written text's content (evaluative comprehension)
3. Connect the text to other written passages and situations (inferential comprehension)

The development of these reading skills is vital to students development, and a sheer volume of studies has demonstrated a link between competency in reading and overall attainment in college.

Reading skill designs for practice for which reading is also an art .If student or any individual interested in undertaking a reading skill they must form a practice of reading habits. Practice makes a men perfect & formation of practice may certainly improve the quality of reading habits .

For reading skill, while reading & if a person find any difficulty to understand the meaning of the word, the concerned individual so invariably prefer Dictionary. With this for reading skill, initially while reading the paragraph of any reading material the person concerned should silently keeping in the mind what he has read.

It is not a subject of cramming but this will help to recapitulate, understanding & meaning of the language which will certainly help for developing for reading skill.

Reading strategy 1: purposeful reading

If you tend to begin reading like this: "I need to read Chapter 6 – here it goes! ...", you may need to re think your approach. Specifically, you will need to create a purpose for reading. Be very clear about exactly what you are looking for. Don't just read aimlessly. Perhaps you will look for answers to questions, general understanding of a topic or issue, detailed knowledge, a range of perspectives, identification of a writer's position, evaluation of a writer's position, arguments that support your position, arguments that oppose your position, examples, statistics, definitions, explanations, quotes, etc. Try to have the purpose in writing nearby so you maintain focus. Purposeful reading of this nature can help you read faster and more selectively. It can also help your concentration and your ability to remember.

Reading strategy 2: scanning

Scanning through the text is a reading strategy that is used for getting some specific points by looking at the whole text.

For highlighting the important points of a book the readers can skim through the summary or the preface or the beginning and ending chapters of that book.

For example,

This technique is used for looking up a name from the telephone guide book.

Reading strategy 3: skimming

This reading technique is used for getting the gist of the whole text lead. We generally use this technique at the time of reading newspaper or magazine.

Under this technique, we read quickly to get the main points, and skip over the detail.

It is useful in getting a preview of a passage before reading it in detail or reviving understandings of a passage after reading it in detail.

- titles
- sub headings
- words in that are in bold, in italics or underlined
- diagrams
- a report's abstract, introduction or conclusion
- the first sentence of every paragraph
- chapter questions
- chapter objectives
- chapter summaries

Reading strategy 4: Active Reading

Active reading aims to get an in-depth understanding of the text. Under this technique, the reader actively involved with the text while reading it.

Getting in depth knowledge on the text at hand is not possible by reading to skim through or scan through the text.

Reading strategy 5: Detailed Reading

This technique is used for extracting information accurately from the whole text. Under this technique, we read every word for understanding the meaning of the text. In this careful reading, we can skim the text first for getting a general idea and then go back to read in detail. We can use a dictionary to find the meaning of every unfamiliar word.

Reading strategy 6: Speed Reading

Speed-reading is actually a combination of various reading methods. The aim of speed-reading is basically to increase the reading speed without compromising the understanding of the text reading. Some of the strategies used in speed reading are as follows:

- Identifying words without focusing on each letter;
- Not to sounding-out all words;
- Not sub-vocalizing some phrases;
- Spending less time on some phrases than others;
- Skimming small sections.

Reading strategy 7: marking the text

If the text you are reading is your own copy, you could also underline key words, highlight with a marker, or make notes in margins, or alternatively, if you don't own the text, you could use little 'post-it' labels. This process of marking texts can help you concentrate (and keep reading!) and can help you identify key points and make the book easier to survey later when you need to use it again for your assignment or to revise for an exam. revise effectively later.

Reading strategy 8: note-taking

If you don't take notes well, or don't take them at all, now is the time to develop this essential skill! Note-taking can help you gain deeper understanding and reflection, a better ability to remember and good exam preparation materials for later. When taking notes, pay keep in mind the following 7 principles:

1. Record publication details

Always note publication details of any text you may use. Specifically, record such things as the title, author, date, publisher, place of publication, URL, and page numbers.

2. Preview the text before you take notes

As mentioned earlier, scan, skim and 'surface read' the text before noting to help you develop understanding of the text and awareness of what is important to note. Taking notes of everything is a slow, boring, ineffective exercise.

3. Maintain a central place for your notes.

Where record your notes is up to you. Some people prefer using a computer, while others use flash cards, folders, or exercise books. What is important is that you will be able to find the notes and understand their layout and content a few weeks or months later.

4. Paraphrase and summarise ideas

Writing out sentences word for word is probably even less useful than just highlighting sentences with a marker. Sure, they will be times you need write things word for word (use quotation marks when you do this!) but better understanding will come through putting things in your own words. Not sure how to do this? Say the key points in your own words out loud and then write them down. Finish by checking your paraphrase is clear and accurate

5. Note your thoughts

Don't forget the great value of noting beyond just what is said in the text. Note down such things as your ideas, points you agree or disagree with, relevant experiences, questions, examples and relationships with other texts. Those initial thoughts you have as you read may be of great use later, and it is a mistake to risk forgetting them.

6. Be creative

Consider how you should note different parts of texts as well as just what you should note. The process of thinking about how to note can aid understanding as well as ability to remember information and reflect. Depending on the nature of the information you wish to note, you may choose to use spider diagrams, concept maps, titles, columns, dot points, numbers, symbols, colours, pictures or columns for your reflections.

7. Review your notes

Once you have completed some notes, always look back at them and check:

1. they are accurate,
2. they are readable,
3. you will be able to use them later and
4. they contain full reference details.

Reading strategy 9: managing vocabulary

Even if you are a native English speaker, you may at times feel overwhelmed by the amount of unfamiliar vocabulary you encounter. Of course, as a university student, you have a great opportunity and need to build your vocabulary (discipline specific and general), so consult glossaries and use a dictionary. Keep a list of new words: record their definitions and write example sentences which show meaning and usage. When using your dictionary, be discerning. Know which words can be ignored, and see if it is possible to guess the meanings of words. You may be able to do this if you:

1. Guess using context:

The patient suffered from respiratory ailments, skin problems, and hypertension

2. Guess using prefixes, suffixes and word stems

- examinations

Reading strategy 10: reading with others

Consider getting a “study buddy” or study group. Be careful to keep focussed on what you need to do and you may find that by sharing notes, explaining, asking and quizzing each other, you can increase your ability to understand, reflect upon and remember key points in texts.

Summary :

- Have a clear focus for your reading. Set your reading goals.
- Survey the text before you spend the time and effort involved in detailed reading.
- Scan and skim to select the text for detailed reading.
- Scan and skim after detailed reading to reinforce your understanding.
- Use a form of note taking whilst reading in detail, to keep you concentrating, aid understanding and provide you with a record of your reading.
- Using clear reading goals and a variety of reading skills is more important than increasing your reading speed.
- To improve your reading speed, don't increase the speed of the eye across the page, but increase the number of words the eye recognises in a single fixation.

PREPARATION OF CURRICULUM VITAE

What is the purpose of a CV?

- To inform the employer about your education, work experience, skills and interests
- To 'sell' these qualities and to persuade the employer to invite you to interview

When should a CV be used?

- When an employer asks for an application in that format
- When an employer states 'apply to...' without specifying the format
- When making speculative applications

Matching up your CV with the position/company

- It is not 'one size fits all', you need to tailor your CV to each position you apply for.
- Research the company. Do they have a mission statement or core values? What will they be looking for in you? Who works there at the moment? What are they passionate about?

Proving your ability

There are four main things employers will look at in CVs:

- Education - ability to think clearly, analyse and assess information, draw conclusions, work independently, research
- Work experience - ability to get on with people, work under pressure, meet deadlines
- Leisure interests - ability to plan and organise, co-operate with others, compete, lead, work hard to achieve results
- Specific skills - e.g. driving licence, computer skills, foreign languages, artistic skills

Step Two

Create Your Personal Profile

- Look for ways to put a positive spin on your career history.
- Create a powerful, competent and experienced image by using action words to describe yourself and your accomplishments.
- Give yourself all the credit you deserve.
- Be totally honest, but don't shortchange yourself by underestimating or minimizing your accomplishments.
- Have a professional critique of your resume.

Step Three

Know the Position

Make sure you and the position are a match.

- ◆ Duties of the position
- ◆ Compensation range
- ◆ Location
- ◆ Work schedules
- ◆ Benefits

Step Four

Know the Organization

- ◆ Organization's name

- ◆ Private or public
- ◆ What products or services
- ◆ Key management team

Where to find organization's information:

- ◆ Search engines like Google or Hoovers
- ◆ College placement office
- ◆ Networking
- ◆ Library and newspaper archives

Step Five

General Tips

- ◆ Map your route to the interview site so you're not late.
- ◆ Appropriate business attire is a must.
- ◆ Refer to your achievements often before your interview date, so they're fresh in your mind.
- ◆ Know your answers to probable questions before you walk in the door.
- ◆ Practice, practice, practice your answers and your delivery. Ask others to critique you.
- ◆ If you have access to a video recorder, tape a mock interview so you can see your nonverbal communication.
- ◆ The image you project and how you present yourself will be either a deal-maker or deal-breaker.
- ◆ Think about questions you need to ask. Write them down to jog your memory.

Typical and not so typical Job Interview Questions

- ◆ Tell me about yourself. (Don't ramble. Stay focused on those things about yourself that make you best qualified for the job.)
- ◆ What are your strengths? (Make sure you know what they are before you get to the interview. Make a list.)
- ◆ What are your weaknesses? (Careful of this one. What you say can and will be held against you.)
- ◆ How would your current (or last) boss describe you? (Be honest . . . They may be talking to him/her)
- ◆ Describe the attributes of the worst boss you ever had. (Treat this like a minefield. A misstep could blow up in your face. Try to put a positive spin on the negative attributes.)
- ◆ Describe a conflict or disagreement you have had at work and explain how you handled it.

Introduction

E-mail is a system of sending written messages electronically from one computer to another. E-mail is an abbreviation of 'electronic mail'.

1. short for electronic mail
2. to contact (a person) by electronic mail
3. to send (a message, document, etc) by electronic mail

Advantages of email

1. Fast and cheap
2. Ideal way to reach persons who are difficult to get on the phone (e.g. most physicians!)
3. Because it is written, you can compose and review your message before sending
4. Ideal for international communications (expense, problems reaching colleagues, differences in time zones)
5. Convenient and non-intrusive: I typically review and answer emails late at night after the kids have gone to bed
6. You can check your email from any computer in the world; e.g., while visiting, from a hotel room, in your car, etc.
7. You can easily include all or part of previous messages, or the message you are responding to, including point by point responses to questions, etc.
8. Ability to send same message to predefined groups of people
9. Ability to include attached files, documents, pictures, datasets
10. Messages easily archivable and storable in a database; search by sender, date, subject, or put into separate mailboxes
11. Ability to paste from other applications directly into email document (e.g., a review of a paper found on a website)
