Sparking Curiosity and Nurturing Creativity in India

Agastya is a cause - not just an organization. Its vision is of a creative India. Its mission is "to spark curiosity, nurture creativity, and instill confidence" in economically disadvantaged children and government school teachers by bringing imaginative and innovative hands-on science education, project-based and peer-to-peer learning to schools, towns and villages across India.

Creativity is an essential competency for all young people to develop, and is one of the top skills that will be required in the careers of tomorrow. Investment in young people's creative skills nurtures critical thinking, complex problem solving, innovation and curiosity.

As Agastya, we believe all young people, regardless of background, should have opportunities to develop and express their creativity, learn valuable skills, and access meaningful career opportunities.

To promote and catalyze creativity we support organizations such as GDCs and other Government educational Institutions.

2. Promoting Agastya's Pedagogy through GDC students
